WHY IS MEDICATION MONITORING IMPORTANT TO SERVICE MEMBERS?

Prescription medications are frequently used to treat patients with common diagnoses such as pain, anxiety, substance use disorder, depression or mental health disorders. Lack of efficacy, poor outcomes, misuse, abuse and diversion are growing concerns. When paired with clinical expertise, pharmacogenetic testing and medication monitoring can be important assessment tools to help clinicians improve patient outcomes. Our comprehensive, customized services provide accurate results with unsurpassed service and support.

Chronic Pain Has Been Described as the Biggest “Silent Military Threat.”

Millennium Health understands that military service, in combat or peacetime, can exact a physical and psychological toll – often manifested by chronic debilitating pain and mental health disorders.

Even the best-trained and most resilient service members can be impacted.
